DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. With respect to claim 1 and the rest of the claims, the recitation of "rake-like" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear to what kind of configuration does the applicant tries to set forth since there are many types of "rake-like" structures. In particular, how does the terminology of "rake-like" structurally define the respective element? With respect to claims 2, 17, 18, and 19, it is unclear to what constitutes the "oblique" position since the particular oblique position has not yet been defined. (Note claim 4 defines the oblique position). Further, the claims recite several functions without providing a sufficient structure to enable the function to be effected. Note that structural must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative device. Claim 6, there is no antecedent basis for "said oblique position". Claims 10 and 21 appear to be misdescriptive and/or inaccurate because there is no support for the prongs and the angled ends forming a "u-shaped" configuration. Claim 11 doubly recites the same limitations as claim 1 and contains the same indefiniteness as aforementioned in claim 1.

Claim 15 is indefinite for the same reasons as claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Remmler.

Remmler discloses a dish rack (40) comprising a plurality of free end wire-prongs (62) with the bottom angle ends (60) forming an L-shaped rake-like configuration. The angle ends are attached to the longitudinal base wire (50) that forms a stop to retain dishes in between wires. The angle ends are formed a set down surface in a horizontal position and pivotable into an oblique position of half way between the horizontal and vertical positions, see Figures 4 and 5.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicants' disclosure. Kassanchuk, Anthony Mason, J. Field et al., Graham, Weizer, and G. Einhorn are cited to show similar configurations of design.

If the applicant is submitted by facsimile transmission, applicant is hereby reminded that the original should be retained as evidence of authenticity (37 CFR 1.4 and M.P.E.P. 502.02). In general, most responses and/or amendments not requiring a fee, as well as those requiring a fee but charging such fee to a deposit account, can be submitted by facsimile transmission. Responses requiring a fee which applicant is paying by check should not be submitting by facsimile transmission separately from the check. Responses submitted by facsimile transmission should include a Certificate of Transmission (M.P.E.P 512). The following is an example of the format the certification might take:

I hereby certify that this correspondence is being facsimile transmitted to the Patent and Trademark Office (Fax No. _____) on _____ (Date)

Type or printed name of person signing this certificate:

(Signature)

Art Unit: 3634

Furthermore, please do not separately mail the original or another copy unless required by the Patent and Trademark Office. Submission of the original response or a follow-up copy of the response after your response has been transmitted by facsimile will only cause further unnecessary delays in the processing of your application; duplicate responses where fees are charged to a deposit account may result in those fees being charged twice.
